Difference between a Team Schedule Page and the Division Schedule Page

The division schedule page is the page displayed when you click on a division name from the main link to BRCL schedules.

- The team schedule page contains one team's schedule. The division schedule page contains the schedule for all games for that division.
- Field links on both the division and team schedule pages provide directions to that field as well as a link to that field's schedule.
- The team schedule page will show division standings. The division schedule page will also show division standings. However, when flights are utilized, only the division schedule page will show flights. A flights is not a division, but used to assist in creating a division schedule. Not all divisions will utilize flights.
